Hi Richard,

I may be getting ahead of myself here but I want to be prepared just in case. I want to learn about the ICR process. The National PFAS Data Explorer is intended to gather information from inside and outside EPA for display via Qlik. To do this the current thought is to use existing mechanisms for receipt of the data (e.g. WQP). However, my sense is that other means of collecting data from outside stakeholders will be needed which may require an ICR to go 'get' the data from the States. Can you point me to information on the ICR process?

Thanks,

Alex
